Russian translators

In regard to the attached memorandum from [redacted] STAT
Acting Chief, Advisory Council, requesting information on Russian translators, this is to advise that we have only two or three suggestions which are as follows:

- STAT
- (1) [redacted] of the Monitoring Division is in touch with a Russian-born American Citizen who we understand is very competent. While we do not have her name and address at the moment we are expecting word from her within the next few days.
  - (2) We have at present on our staff here in Washington a young lady, who while not working as a Russian translator, is well qualified in such work and by virtue of extenuating circumstances we might be able to release her for one of these positions. I will clarify this case with you in person.
  - (3) May I call your attention to the note of [redacted] giving the name of STAT
Miss Landau of the State Department as a possibility.

It is quite possible we will obtain additional names in the future and if so I will make any such information available to you at once.
